TEN DAYS OF FUN

A Gathering of Natives From All Parts of Southeastern Alaska

SOCIABILITY WILL BE KING

Bring Your Relatives and Friends, and Enjoy Yourselves

All arrangements have been made for the big reunion and jubilee which is to commence at Wrangell, December 15, and continue until after Christmas. The natives of Klawack, Shakan, Kasaan, Kaake and Petersburg will be here, and the Klawack and Kasaan brass bands will help to make the affair the success which it promises to be. There will be entertainments almost every night during the whole ten days, and these events will be varied so that each will be interesting. Band concerts, dances, musical and literary entertainments, etc., will fill up the nights, while the days will be passed with field and aquatic sports. There will be foot races, potato races, egg races, sack races, boat races, canoe races, sailing races, weight throwing, jumping and wrestling contests, to the winners of which suitable prizes will be given. It is the aim of the promoters to make this the greatest celebration ever held in southeastern Alaska.

BUT THAT IS NOT ALL

If you think there is not going to be anything doing holiday week, you are entitled to one more guess. All former holiday weeks are not 1-2-3 to what the coming one will be. The little town will be awake all the week, and don't overlook the fact. Everybody knows Jack Collins, and they also know that when he undertakes to entertain, there is nothing left undone that will add one iota to the success of the undertaking.

Well, what we started to say is that Jack has rented the Red Men's Hall for the entire week commencing Christmas Eve, and each night during the week there will be "doings." The first night, Christmas Eve, there will be a big masquerade ball for the whites; Christmas night, a Christmas tree and band concert for natives; Wednesday night a big masquerade for natives, at which various prizes will be given; Thursday and Friday nights, just big surprises for everybody; Saturday night, a great big winding-up dance. Each night during the week, a coupon will be given to each person who buys a ticket. The tickets will all be placed in a sealed box, and on Saturday night one number will be drawn from the box. The person holding the corresponding coupon will receive a handsome gold watch. So if you want to have the biggest time of your life, come to Wrangell before the 15th and stay until the finish.

GET THE HABIT

This office has just received from an engraver in Denver a lot of fine half tone cuts, representing two of the principal attractions of this section. Two of these cuts are pictures of the horns of moose, caribou, sheep and goats, one is a picture of a fine mounted moose head, one is of a bunch of ducks and geese and the other is of a totem pole—one of the finest in Alaska. We propose to group these cuts and print them upon the backs of letter paper and also upon post cards and keep them for sale.

If you like the town; if you have any interests here or are glad you live here; if you wish to have the town known as a paradise for game hunters and curiosity seekers, get some of this letter paper with your business head neatly printed upon it, and every letter written to any part of the world will be a boost. If you have no business and wish to send a brief note to a friend "back home," get a few post cards. They do not cost much, and will be a great help in getting attention attracted this way.

TRESPASS NOTICE

All persons are hereby legally warned not to trespass upon Soukhol Island, either to hunt, fish, trap, or in any other manner. These islands have been leased from the U. S. Government by the undersigned, who will fully protect his rights, and any person found trespassing on the same will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Petersburg, Alaska, Dec. 1, 1906.

The papers up north have much to say against the destruction of countless numbers of herring by the guano factories. It is said that as many as 200 barrels of these fish are sometimes taken at a single haul. As these fish are the chief food of the salmon and halibut, we, too, think that legislation should be enacted which would at least limit the number taken.

HOLD UP IN WRANGELL

While going to his home one night last week, one of the leading business men was held up at the corner of the jail and relieved of his opinion of the job work done at the SENTINEL office. He said that it was just as good as any work he had seen, and that the variety of work done by the little office and the reasonable prices were a surprise to him. See for yourself.

NOVEMBER ROLL OF HONOR

Pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy in the primary department of the Wrangell public school during the month of November, are as follows:

Willie Stedman, Louis Wigg, Ellery Carlson, Charlie Carlson, Adolph Engstrom, Wallace Sinclair, Walter Coulter, Thor Hofstad, Amanda Horgheim, Bella Horgheim, Mabel Wigg, Elsie Moore, Alice Kincaid, Grace Wigg, Lynn Worden, Clytha Enslay.

ELLA L. WOODS, Teacher.

Jack Collins went to Seattle on the Humboldt.

Mr. Andrew Thomas left on the Humboldt for points south.

The Wrangell Shingle company spent Thanksgiving in town.

The Marble Creek party got away for the south on the Dolphin.

Alax Vreast went south on the Cottage City, on business bent.

Marshal Grant went south on the Humboldt, to take an insane patient from Ketchikan to the sanitarium at Portland, Oregon.

Prof. Nash was rather blue over the loss of a purse containing $200, one day last week, but his good spirits returned upon finding it, Thursday.

The Humboldt would have brought mail on the last trip if the postoffice people in Seattle had cared a damn whether or not we ever get mail.

OUR CLUBBING OFFERS

In order to give our subscribers a good opportunity to get an abundance of reading matter for the entire family, we make the following generous offers:

THESE ARE STRICTLY PAID-IN-ADVANCE PRICES

Sentinel and Toledo Weekly Blade, one year,	$2.00
Sentinel and Twice-a-week Republic, one year,	2.00
Sentinel and Review of Reviews,	4.00
Sentinel, Review of Reviews and Woman's Home Companion,	5.00
Above three and Success Magazine,	5.65
All of above mentioned papers and magazines, one whole year, only	6.25

HERE IS ANOTHER OFFER

To any subscriber to the Sentinel who owes subscription for two years or more, and who will pay up the delinquency and $3.00 in advance, we will send any three of the above magazines or papers and the Alaska Sentinel for a whole year.

That walk leading north across the government reserve on the west side of the jail is very much dilapidated, and should be repaired or taken out.

I. Myhre Hofstad, dealer in general merchandise, writes in from "Port Arthur" for printed stationery.

Col. C. E. Nason made a quick business trip over from Marble Creek by the Ella Rohlfis, returning yesterday.

A new postoffice, to be known by the name of "Calden," will soon be established at Marble Creek. This will give the Alaska Marble Co. their mail without being compelled to go to Shakan. John McCullum will be Caldren's first postmaster.

Gus Bushman is now confined to his room at the Stedman with a flesh wound in his wrist and above the knee. Bushman and Captain Craig Miller were passengers on the Ella Rohlfis during her trip last week, and while the boat was waiting for good weather they went deer hunting. They separated and later Bushman was taken for a deer and shot, the bullet fortunately making only a flesh wound. Captain Miller has been looking after Bushman's comfort since the accident, and he will soon be all right.—Ketchikan Journal.

The Ketchikan Journal says that Mr. C. Shelton of New York recently found unmistakable signs of the existence of caribou on Queen Charlotte Islands.

A roller skating rink is soon to be opened in Ketchikan. It will be 72x113 feet in size.

News Gathered With Pencil and Scissors, From Home and Neighboring Places

The Wrangell Drug Co.

Wrangell, December 15, 1906, Until December, 25, Christmas, Big reunion and general good, sociable time for all.

Upwards of three hundred natives will be here from all parts of southeastern Alaska. Bring all your friends and families and have a good time with us.

F. E. Smith and wife will open an ice cream parlor and restaurant in the building recently vacated by F. Chon. They expect to get started on or about the 15th of December.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Waters left on the Humboldt for Denver, Colo. Mrs. W. will visit relatives there for a time, after which she will go to her old home in Canada for a visit. Mr. Waters will return shortly.

The water main from Jensen & Grant reservoir has been lengthened on Front street, so as to furnish water for the protection of Mr. Jensen's new building now being erected west of the Olympic Restaurant.

The information has come to us pretty straight that Patsy Mason will soon move from Kaake to Wrangell for the purpose of organizing a good brass band among the natives of this place. A band is one thing we need, and we are pleased to hear that one is promised.

Johnny Hagstrom came in from the Olympic mines by the Cottage City. Johnny has been indisposed for some time, and will recuperate for awhile before going back to work. He says things are going ahead at the mines and that all the Wrangellites at the mines are well and hearty.

Some important changes have lately taken place in the management of the Wrangell Electric Light and Power Co., L. J. Cole having bought the interests owned by Rev. Corser, Ed. Lyons and others, and placed the management in the hands of Fred C. Congdon. Fred is a practical electrician, and as his employment in the above capacity brings another good citizen to the town, we welcome the change.

Court is in session at Juneau. Christmas three weeks from Monday next.

Wrangell's trappers are most all out after marten.

Al Osborne and Charley Olsen went to the flats after ducks, Saturday.

The old Alki was in from the south, Thursday, with a lot of calcium carbide for Bruno Greif.

Al Osborne's big Columbia River boat was launched Thursday last, quite a crowd attending the ceremony.

The mill closed down Saturday, only a few men remaining to make the proposed improvements and repairs.

Messrs. A. T. Bennett, J. G. Grant, N. J. Svindeth and Ed. Lyons are at Juneau as jurors. They went up on the Humboldt.

The Alaska and garnet will continue work for a time before being laid up for the winter. They left out Monday with a load of lumber.

Wm. Tamaree will build on the site of the old log building recently torn down west of the Salvation Army barracks. Let the good work go on.

Judges Gunnison and Wickersham will exchange places for a short time in order that each may try cases wherein change of venue was desired.

Prof. George H. Edson, the popular dancing master, desires to thank the judges for awarding his partner the premium at the Thanksgiving ball.

Kitty, the old native woman who has been living on Stikine Avenue, left on the Cottage City for Ketchikan to take up her future residence. She was "hyu sallow" with the Wrangell people for having stolen several articles from her house during her absence at Klawack last summer.

Capt. John Johnson and wife and Mr. Claybell came up from Lincoln Rock last week, arriving here Wednesday in Capt. Choo Choo boat. They were on business, and intended to return Thursday, but the weather would not permit them to leave until Saturday. Capt. Johnson says that the mail boat from Ketchikan has not been to the lighthouse for a long time, and that the men at the light are highly indignant about it. He is now employed by the government in repairing some scows to be used in some kind of work in the Narrows next year. He was not feeling like his big, healthy self this trip, having strained himself in a fall several weeks ago, from the effect of which he has just risen from his bed.

Coming, the National Star Company.

Christmas toys and things are appearing in the show windows.

Harry Markworth brought over from the narrows several cans of halibut, put up by some new process. It is fine.

Miss Lulu McGee, after spending four or five weeks with old friends at this place, returned to Loring on the Humboldt, Monday.

Thanksgiving passed off very quietly in Wrangell. The business houses were all closed and appropriate services were held at the churches.

That new walk on Front Street serves the double purpose of being convenient and improving the appearance of the street by hiding a lot of debris.

A little recent family quarrel among natives, up at Petersburg, resulted in three of them being put in the skookum house at this place Saturday with sentences of fifty-five days.

The masquerade ball given by the local lodge of Red Men at their hall last Wednesday night, attracted the largest crowd that has attended any event of any kind in this town for years—and we don't even except meetings of the chamber of commerce. The seats for spectators were all filled and a large number were compelled to stand. There were about eighty masqueraders, and being short on "capes," we are unable to give the names of all as promised in our last issue. The characters represented varied from ragged hobos to gorgeously attired queens, etc., but the king-pin of the whole affair was Fritz (Jack Collins) and Katrina (Mrs. Stackpole) the young couple about von Deutschland, wooden shoes, pretzels and all, and after their entrance there was no question as to who would be awarded the premium for best sustained characters. For wearing the most gorgeous costume, Mr. T. J. Case carried off the prize. Her costume was of white silk, beautifully embroidered, and the character represented Queen Katherine. Mrs. Hollenbeck captured the prize for best lady waltzer, and the gentleman's prize was awarded to Mr. Soulin, from Marble Creek. Another Marble Creek man, whose name we failed to learn, carried off the prize for funniest clown. The music was fine, being produced by the favorite trio, Mrs. Collins, C. Denny and L. R. Milligan, and the welkin rang until about four in the morning—Thanksgiving day—an appropriate time for the participants to thank their lucky stars that they were permitted to attend this, the great success of the season.

VRANGEL.....ALASKA.

Every man has his price—but few get it.

And you always get full measure when you acquire a peck of trouble.

It will soon take an expert to distinguish between a Russian crisis and a revolution.

Paradoxically, a shortage in the Kentish hop fields promises a jump in the price.

The people of Helsingfors insist that their town isn't anywhere near as bad as it sounds.

A painter has just died leaving a fortune of $200,000. Yet some folks insist there's nothing in signs.

The small boy of Russia is not being inspired, these days, with the illusive hope that some day he may be Czar.

It is getting so that when two battleships escape collision the circumstance is worth a paragraph in the news columns.

There are thousands of people in the country who would have been satisfied had Russell Sage been a $25,000 uncle to them.

James J. Corbett has managed to get into the limelight again by licking a milkman. Treating him to a milk punch, as it were.

The public is beginning to learn some things about his nephews and nieces that Uncle Russell Sage doubtless knew when he made his will.

William Cullen Bryant once wrote an ode to a mosquito, beginning "Fair insect." He must have known that only the lady mosquito lights upon man.

Speaking of universal peace, Russia is preparing to build bigger and heavier battleships, and Japan is experimenting with new and deadlier projectiles.

A sea cow, eighteen feet long, and which cost $2,000, has been added to the New York aquarium. We suppose it is to furnish milk for the sea urchins there.

A woman is trying to get theatrical managers to refuse to put on pieces which call for the appearance of girls in tights. We have no doubt that the managers will yield to her entreaties the moment such pieces cease to pay.

In Denmark there is a company that insures girls against becoming old maids. A girl who has to pay an unusually high premium over there may be justified in refusing to believe the fellows who tell her she is beautiful.

An Atlanta, Ga., man was arrested a few days ago for kissing his wife in public. This should be a lesson to married men everywhere. Let the married man limit his public demonstrations of affection to calling her "Pet" or "Baby."

An Eastern bard begins a poem thus: An anarchist was working Within a garret mean. This shows how dangerous it is for bards to sing of things concerning which they are ignorant. Anarchists don't work.

A Chinese viceroy has adopted the plan of keeping a group of Christians in jail to pray for rain. As soon as the climatic conditions are favorable he lets out one lot and takes on another against the next dry spell. A few weeks of wet weather ought to be a great Christianizing influence in that province.

A woman lecturer at the University of Wisconsin the other day said to an audience composed of members of her own sex: "We are never going to be free so long as we wear petticoats. Woman must wear a gymnasium-like costume if she wishes to gain her freedom." Is there to be a renaissance of the bloomer.

The spoiling of sons by wealthy fathers is peculiarly a habit of the newly rich. Where money has longer been in the family, the possession of a few millions does not constitute an irresistible temptation to rush out and make a swine of one's self. But the sudden fortunes of the past few years of blessed prosperity have confessedly turned out a crowd of vapid and worthless and helplessly rich young men.

One of the construction firms engaged in rebuilding San Francisco engaged a large quantity of Portland cement, to be delivered this month at the rate of a thousand barrels a day. Delivery at that rate for forty-two days would have exhausted the entire production of cement in the United States in 1880. Last year, however, 24,000,000 barrels were produced, and only the other day a Kansas City company began to build a plant for its manufacture that will turn out half a million barrels a year. When concrete houses become popular the demand for Portland cement will increase to such an extent that every man who has a bed of argillaceous limestone on his farm will have a fortune waiting at his hand.

During the fiscal year, ended on June 30, the national government had a surplus of receipts over expenditures amounting to more than twenty-five million dollars. During the preceding year there was a deficit of nearly the same amount. In 1903-04 there was also a deficit, but it would have been less than two millions if the expenditures had not included a sum of forty million dollars paid for the Panama Canal. The United States, unlike most governments in this respect, does not vary its taxing system from year to year according to the demands that are to be made on the treasury. There has been no change in the tariff on imports since 1897. Only the tariff of 1846, which was in force eleven years, has had a longer life than the Dingley tariff. Nor has any important amendment been made in the internal revenue system since the repeal of the taxes imposed to pay the expenses of the Spanish war. The result of having a fixed system of revenue, the proceeds of which fluctuate as the country is prosperous or otherwise, and of making appropriations without knowing how large the receipts are to be, is that the government has sometimes a large surplus, and again a deficit. Immense receipts for customs in consequence of an unprecedented importation of foreign goods caused the surplus of the past year. Expenditures were large, but the tariff yielded more than three hundred million dollars, and internal revenue receipts also increased, although not so largely as customs. No longer ago than last December a deficit was anticipated, but in the last six months the revenue poured into the treasury in unexpected millions.

Child labor laws seem to fail because legislators do not distinguish carefully between the thing to be accomplished and the means to accomplish it. There is no doubt whatever that legislatures can fix the minimum age at which children may be allowed to work, but in carrying out the purpose of the laws they make, they must be sure that they treat all children alike. The certification of age must be obtainable by all. Child labor laws, so far as their executive provisions go, have been fashioned too much after the laws of European countries. It is very easy in those countries to obtain certificates of age, because they all preserve vital statistics. Every child born into the world is properly recorded, and at any time the date of his birth can be obtained. In this country vital statistics have not been kept until very recent years. Here the States manage these matters to suit themselves. The births of some children are recorded and of others not. Any law that requires a certificate based upon record must necessarily discriminate against those whose births are not a matter of record. The Pennsylvania law has been declared unconstitutional because it so discriminated. Other laws have met similar fate for the same reason. What are needed are provisions that will conform to the conditions obtaining in this country. There is no doubt that a minimum age can be fixed by law. There ought to be some way by which evidence of age can be established that will apply to all alike. This is the problem to be solved, and its solution may lie in the general institution of vital statistics. The courts have not indicated such a solution, they being satisfied simply to declare the defects in laws enacted. The lawmakers must discover how to solve this problem and no doubt they will.

His "Working Clothes."
"I want to get a suit of working clothes," said a man in a clothing store to the salesman who came forward.
"Step this way, sir," politely responded the salesman, and the prospective customer went to the rear of the store, where there were huge piles of jeans and blouses and suits varying in price from three to ten dollars.
"These won't do," the customer declared. "I want a dress suit."
"I thought you said you wanted working clothes," ventured the salesman.
"So I did," the customer calmly responded. "That's the kind of clothes I work in. I'm a musician at the theater."

Embarrassing.
A Philadelphia business man tells this story on himself:
"You know in this city there are two telephone companies," he said, "and in my office I have a telephone of each company. Last week I hired a new office boy, and one of his duties was to answer the telephone. The other day, when one of the bells rang, he answered the call, and then came in and told me I was wanted on the phone by my wife."
"Which one?" I inquired, quickly, thinking of the two telephones, of course.
"Please, sir," stammered the boy, "I don't know how many you have."

A Lottery.
Dr. Phaker—Take this prescription; it will either kill or cure you.
Patient—But suppose it kills me?
Dr. Phaker—Nothing ventured, nothing gained. My motto is, "No cure, no pay," so I'm taking a chance as well as you.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Overripe.
"The life of an oyster," said the scientific person, "may be fifteen years, but never more than that."
"Indeed?" replied Jigsby. "Then one of the oysters I got in a stew yesterday must have been about 16 years old."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Don't feel complimented when some one tells you that you look comfortable in hot weather: You probably look slouchy.

HOW UNCLE SAM TEACHES HIS YOUNG SOLDIERS.

Americans may well be proud of their great military training academy at West Point; it is one of the most complete institutions of its kind and furnishes the cadet with a thorough practical and theoretical knowledge of his duties before he is actually launched on his career as an officer. This great academy—the upkeep of which costs the United States government no less than about $630,000 per annum—furnishes rather over 50 per cent of America's officers. Intending competitors must be between the ages of 17 and 22 and they must also be at least 5 feet 3 inches in height. They appear before an examination board which meets in May, and should they succeed in passing both physical and mental tests they are allowed to enter the military academy on June 12 for a four-years course. The tests of the prolonged probation are so severe that often not more than 50 per cent finally pass out. Each cadet receives yearly, roughly, about $650, out of which he has to pay for his messing and uniform. The life is Spartan-like in its simplicity and in the severity of its punishments. The cadets are granted no allowance or pocket money, and the use of intoxicating drinks is strictly prohibited—so much so, that should any spirituous liquor be found in a cadet's quarters he is liable to be dismissed from the service; the use of tobacco is likewise forbidden.

There are also very stringent rules as to the treatment of the junior cadets in connection with what is known as "ragging," any cadet being considered guilty of bullying, even in the mildest form, laying himself open to summary dismissal from the military academy. Cadets are even forbidden to buy

THE FEMINE METHOD.

How They Puzzle One Another by Their Polite Attentions.

"There comes that bowl again!" ejaculated Mrs. Pryor, in a tone of despair. A moment later she was at the door listening affably while her friend from across the street told her she "couldn't resist bringing over a bowl of these strawberries—they are so unusually large."

"What about the bowl, Jean?" queried the bachelor brother, who persists in trying to help.

"Enough about it!" groaned his sister, as soon as the neighbor was safely out of hearing. "On my birthday—three months ago, mind you—Mrs. Fox brought over that bowl filled with some of her delicious home-made candy, and to save me I couldn't tell whether she was presenting me with the bowl or just the candy. It's a dainty little dish, you see, and I didn't want to assume that it was meant for me unless it was, so it was pretty embarrassing until a few days afterward I hit on the idea of sending her some of my strawberry sunshine in the same bowl. I thought if she hadn't intended to give it to me, she would just keep it after that."

"But before a week had passed she sent it over again filled with some of her lovely orange marmalade. There wasn't a thing to do but repeat my little ruse, and that time I gave her spiced gooseberries. Then back she came with some of her precious tutti-frutti, and we've kept it up ever since."

"All the treasures in my fruit-closet are exhausted, and I guess hers are, too, for you see she's begun on the markets now, with these fresh straw-any newspaper or periodical without the express permission of the superintendent, and no one is allowed a servant, so that each cadet has to clean his own uniform and keep his room tidy.

As has been already stated, the life is a truly Spartan one, very little leave or holidays being granted. There is a half-holiday on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and no study from Dec. 4 to Jan. 2; a longer vacation running to a few weeks is given to the cadet at the end of his second year. Work begins daily at 6 a. m. and continues with slight intermission till 9 p. m., each cadet being prepared to the fullest extent to take his place in almost any branch of the service.

There are not only yearly and half-yearly examinations, but monthly and weekly ones; in fact, the cadet is under such close observation that he receives marks for the ordinary daily work. One novel feature of the training at West Point is that particular importance is attached to the system of delivering lectures in a simple and concise manner. Each cadet is made to work out a problem on a blackboard and then to explain it aloud to his companions. In conclusion it may be said that no expense is spared in any way whatsoever to enable the West Point berries. I'm just tired of racking my brains for new delicacies to fill that bowl with, and all I want to know is whether she keeps returning it because she thinks she has given it to me, or whether she is simply paying back my attention to her each time.

"Then why don't you ask her?" "Ask her?" "A man would."

"A man—no doubt!" (with immense superiority.) "And just suppose she hadn't intended giving you the bowl at all! What then?" "Let her say so. Why, I'll ask her for you, sis."

Mrs. Pryor actually squealed. "Oh! If that wouldn't be just like a man—blundering and club-like! Don't you say one word to her about it, Seymour! I shall manage to find out some way. Besides, I've just thought what I can send back in the bowl next time. I'll make stuffed dates."—Youth's Companion.

Our experience has been that when a man approaches us and says: "A funny thing happened yesterday," and then proceeds to relate it, the incident is not funny.

It's easier to do the things we shouldn't do than it is to avoid doing the things we should do.

WIT OF THE YOUNGSTERS.

Teacher—Tommy, can you tell me what animal attaches himself most to man? Tommy (aged 6)—The bulldog, ma'am.

"What does leap-year signify?" asked the teacher of the juvenile class. "One more day of school," promptly answered the boy at the foot.

Teacher—Tommy, is a donkey a biped or a quadruped? Tommy—Please, ma'am, it depends on whether the donkey is a man or a beast.

Grandmother (severely) — Johnny, you must not play on the stairs. Johnny—Well, papa sent me upstairs and mamma sent me down, so what am I to do?

Visitor—How old are you, Harry? Harry—13 years old. Visitor—Why, Harry, your mamma says you are 4! Harry—Yes, but I can't count only three.

Uncle George—Why, Willie, I didn't know you were so cowardly as to need a light when you go to bed. Willie—I don't need it when I go to bed. I only need it to see how to go to sleep.

Little Margie, who was the guest of her grandparents, had eaten a hearty dinner when a second dish of pudding was offered her. Looking longingly at the dish she sighed: "Oh, dear! I do wish I was twins!"

It was a church wedding and the church was handsomely decorated with flowers, the air being laden with their fragrance. Just as the ceremony was about to begin small Edith exclaimed in an audible whisper: "Oh, mamma, doesn't it smell awful solemn in here?"

"Why, Elmer," said the Sunday school teacher, "I am surprised to hear you and that strange boy swearing at each other. What do you mean by such conduct?" "Well, he started it," explained Elmer. "He jumped all over me 'cause I'm a Methodist instead of a Presbyterian like he is."

MADE BANKRUPT BY INK-WELL.

Connection Between Movement of Hand and Building of Big Bridge.

The romance of business life is as fascinating as the romance of history or the most ingenious inventions of the writer of fiction. The merest trifle may have wondrously important results.

Credit is so susceptible that a word may ruin a business. No writer of fiction would dare strain the probabilities by making an overturned bottle of ink the cause of the downfall of one of the largest and wealthiest firms ever known; yet such was the case in actual life.

It was the famous house of Cobbett & Co., of England, that was thus swamped by a mere movement of the hand.

This company and a rival American firm tendered for the building of the great Kaura bridge for the Russian government. Jacob Cobbett, who was the head of the business, spent six months in the designing and contracting, and had all his plans ready. His bid was accepted, and material was bought in enormous quantities, men engaged and engines built.

A time limit had been set for the commencement and the finish, and Cobbett was perfecting his plan and making sure of the smallest details, with all the formula spread out before him, when he stretched out his hand, overturned an ink well, and drowned the most important paper in a black sea.

Cobbett had a poor memory. In a fever of anxiety he tried to reconstruct his plans from stray notes. It was impossible, and he called to the Russian government for more time.

This was refused, and Russia repudiated the contract, on the ground of delay, as the agreement allowed.

Cobbett could not get his work through in time, and the American firm, who now advanced a cheaper tender, with all plans prepared, secured the contract. The loss drove Cobbett & Co. into bankruptcy, and the great Kaura bridge in Russia is American built.

Irreverent.

A soft air shook the honeysuckle vine, and puffs of delicate perfume floated to the young lovers.

Clarence's tone was reverent and hushed. It was as if this slim and beautiful girl were in his eyes a goddess.

"Darling," he said, "each time I kiss you it makes a better man of me." A voice from above cried harshly: "What are you by now, then—saint or archangel?"

A burst of ribald laughter, the rattle of a closing window, and once more the night was bathed in holy calm.

Disappointing.

Sniggs—I had a bad dream last night.

Sniggs—What's bad about that?

Sniggs—That it was a dream.—Toldo Blade.

A Tour of Europe

Paris to the American tourist is often a disappointment on the first view. Little accustomed to conveniences are missing. Manners of living which our forefathers knew continue to prevail. Candles and smoky lamps are used. At some places the bath tub is hauled to a house on a cart, the owner waits on the curbstone till his client is through with his ablutions, and carts it away. The grand hotels are extortionate, and the "tip" system is in full swing. The boulevards change their names every time they make a change in direction.

In the middle of everything on an island in the river in the oldest part of Paris, retaining its importance on account of the Church of Notre Dame. Upon the tip of the island, the oldest hospital, the law courts and the police headquarters are located. The right bank of the river is the center of moneyed luxury and of every fad and folly which wealth produces. Here are the principal boulevards, the majority of the theaters, magnificent avenues, palatial houses and handsome squares. The national library is here, and the city's great centers of commerce and finance. The parks are beautiful, and each has its distinctive charm. The gardens of the Tuilleries have their innumerable statues, the Bois de Boulogne is exquisite with the natural beauties of foliage and long woodland vistas, and the park of the Buttes, Chaumont on its hilly site above the town, has its especial attraction of cascades and a fine staltic grotto. As to the Louvre, its masterpieces represent almost every school of painting, and this famous structure contains more art treasures than any building north of the Alps.

The prefecture of police occupies a great square, alongside of which runs the Rue de Lutèce. This name reminds of the spot wherein the city of Lutetia stood in Caesar's time, the germ of Paris. There is no great difficulty in getting a permit from the director of prisons to visit the congerie. The congerie is part of the palace of justice, and is interesting as the place of confinement of the victims of the revolution. The place of chief interest is the cell in which Marie Antoinette was imprisoned for two months and a half. The tiled floor is the same, and the door is the same, with the upper part barred that she might in going out be forced to bend her head. She had said she would never bow before them, and so they made her do so literally.

Near by in the graveyard where her body lay for many years till it was finally taken to St. Denis, there to rest among the kings of France. In this little cemetery lie the 1,000 Swiss guards who died at the Tuilleries, and there are roses blooming above them "in memory of the queen, for she loved roses."

The Pantheon is one of the notable buildings of Paris, and Notre Dame a chief point of interest. This great church is a marvel of architectural grandeur. It has one eighteen-ton bell which requires eight men to ring it. It is a perfect miracle of stained glass and innumerable statues of kings and saints. Its gorgoyles, representing various large animals, are unique and striking features of the general architecture.

The shops of Paris are an interesting feature of the great city, especially the small ones, and the people passed on the street the tourist always remembers. Two-wheeled carts are seen everywhere, some pushed by men in blue blouses, some by bareheaded women, crowned each by a stiff white muslin cap. The carts contain fish, fruits and vegetables. The purchaser can buy a handful of strawberries, and carry them home either in a brown paper cornucopia or a big green leaf. A garrulous seller cries his wares as he proceeds along. Here is a vender who has dry twigs for sale. Here is a man who polishes floors. He carries a little velvet bag. In it are his slippers, with the brushes on the bottom of them, also a piece of yellow wax, and screwed into a ferruled stick which he carries is a claw like saddlers use.

Most Parisian barbers are hair dressers, and do not have separate rooms for women. The entrances of buildings are put to commercial uses. At one is a milk stand with two or three weather beaten benches holding bowls and measures of different sizes. Great cans of milk and cream stand on the sidewalk. A big flat basket of rolls and bread is fastened to the wall.

Pere Lachaise is the great city cemetery. The tourist reads some famous names here—Rachet, Rosa Bonheur, Felix Faure, Alfred de Musset, the poet. There are many great musicians, Chopin and Cherubini among them. Here is the name of Hahnemann, founder of homeopathy. It is interesting also to observe that there is a Jewish cemetery, and far to one side a Mohammedan cemetery, containing a small mosque wherein lie the queen of Oudh and her son.

A BETTER GAME.

"No you can't sell me no patent rights, lightning rods nor earthquake insurance, but if you want a job in the harvest field I'll pay you more wages than you can make out of any old fake."—St. Paul Dispatch.

FEW CHINESE COMING IN.

Falling Off in Immigration of Celestials at San Francisco.

There is a big falling off in the number of Chinese coming to this port, says the San Francisco Chronicle. At least, that is the story told by the figures in the Chinese immigration bureau. At this time last year every vessel that landed contributed at least 125 Chinese to the population of this country. This year the average per boat has fallen to twelve and is steadily on the decrease. The Siberia had only twelve on board, and the next one to arrive from the Orient is expected to have even less.

The reason for this, as explained by the commissioner of immigration, is the reports spread through China concerning the condition of this city and country. Immediately after the earthquake the reports that went out to the different parts of the world were exaggerated to the extreme. Some of them stated that the city was totally destroyed and that it had been swept by a tidal wave, and that all the other large cities in the country were either in flames or submerged. The idea having obtained a foothold, it was difficult to displace, and a large number of the Chinese think that the United States is ruined beyond the hope of repair. In addition to this, Chinatown, that formerly extended to them a warm welcome when they arrived, is no more, and the inhabitants are scattered all over the surrounding country.

"However, this slump in the travel eastward on the part of the Chinese," said the commissioner, "is only temporary. It has all happened since the earthquake, and as soon as the conditions become normal again we will have them over here in greater numbers than before."

But the number still continues to decrease, and there is also a record of an increased number on the way back to China. Those who are in favor of exclusion of the Chinese are well on the way to see their dream realized, for the number imported will not have to fall off much more before we have a minus quantity.

Immense.

"Young man," said the friendly adviser, "whatever you do, avoid debt." "I guess that's what I'll have to do," was the answer, "unless my credit gets better."—Washington Star.

PERUNA PRAISED.

MRS. ESTHER M. MILNER.

Box 321, DeGraff, Ohio.
Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Sir:—
I was a terrible sufferer from pelvic weakness and had headache continuously. I was not able to do my housework for myself and husband.

I wrote you and described my condition as nearly as possible. You recommended Peruna. I took four bottles of it and was completely cured. I think Peruna a wonderful medicine and have recommended it to my friends with the very best of results. Esther M. Milner.

Very few of the great multitude of women who have been relieved of some pelvic disease or weakness by Peruna ever consent to give a testimonial to be read by the public.

There are, however, a few courageous, self-sacrificing women who will for the sake of their suffering sisters allow their cures to be published.

Mrs. Milner is one of these. In her gratitude for her restoration to health she is willing that the women of the whole world should know it. A chronic invalid brought back to health is no small matter. Words are inadequate to express complete gratitude.

Dishwashing Device.

Where a great deal of dishwashing is necessary, it is a good plan to do away with the drying of them. To make this possible in the average household, a 25-cent rack is now sold. It is shaped like those photographers use for negatives, only, of course, much larger. After being rinsed with clean hot water, the dishes can be set up on edge in the rack and allowed to dry by evaporation. All they need then is a polish with a dry towel as they are placed on the table.

Pale, Thin, Nervous?

Then your blood must be in a very bad condition. You certainly know what to take, then take it—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If you doubt, then consult your doctor. We know what he will say about this grand old family medicine. Sold for over 60 years.

This is the first question your doctor would ask: "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that daily action of the bowels is absolutely essential to recovery. Keep your liver active and your bowels regular by taking laxative doses of Ayer's Pills.

TRUMPET CALLS.

BEAUTIFUL CASS LAKE.

An Undiscovered Country in the Geography of the Camper.

Beautiful Cass Lake, set in an emerald wreath of 6,400 acres of giant Norway and white pines, contains an island of 1,200 acres known as Star Island, because its five wooded points jutting out into the lake give it the shape of a star, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Here also the white pines and giant Norways constitute a bit of the forest primeval. And within this island is yet another lake, the crystal waters of which reflect vividly the evergreen forest that girds its shores. This inner lake is variously known as Lake Helen and Lake Windigo. The latter name was given to it by the Indians and is said to mean the place of the evil spirit, though the fitness of the name is certainly not apparent in the quiet and peaceful surroundings of its placid waters. This lake, which is about a mile in circumference, is almost circular and has no visible outlet or inlet. Its surface is at all times higher than that of the surrounding lakes.

The forest on Star Island is one of its greatest attractions. Many of the trees are two feet through the butt and are capable of being cut into five or six sixteen-foot logs. Norway pine predominates, although many white pines are to be seen.

There is little undergrowth on the island, the surface of which is comparatively even, making it an easy matter to traverse it in all directions. There are high bluffs overlooking Cass Lake which make ideal points on which to pitch a camp. From these bluffs the surface generally slopes gradually to the shores of Lake Helen. There are springs containing the purest of drinking water and wells are easily sunk at all points. From the bluffs the view of Cass Lake, with its numerous bays and inlets and background of pine forest, is enchanting.

The primeval forest stretches away with magnificent sweep to the horizon and nothing in the surroundings suggests the presence of civilized man save the occasional boat of a fisherman.

Star Island is a part of the ten sections, 6,400 acres, forever set apart as a forest reserve by the government. Splendid as this spot is for camping purposes, probably less than a dozen parties availed themselves of its advantages last season. The truth is the spot has not been sought out by outing parties. So far as the great body of summer tourists is concerned, Star Island is yet undiscovered country. Here are all the advantages that go to make an ideal camping spot—pure air, cool, pure water, evergreen forests, high, dry land on which to pitch the tent, myriad lakes and streams and a fisherman's and sportsman's paradise. Added to these advantages is the fact that the reservation is constantly under the police protection of Uncle Sam, which reduces the risk from forest fires and other perils to a minimum. All the camper is required to do is to get a permit from the government; agree to exercise proper care in regard to camp fires and not to injure the trees.

WOMEN AND FASHION

Fussy Housewives.

The best housekeeper is not she who passes the whole day slaving in the house—"doing the work," she terms it; muddling is the correct expression. A woman with method gets through her domestic duties, even without the aid of a servant, by midday or soon after and is ready to take a walk, make a call or two or rest, comfortably with a book or her needlework. Her home is tidy and she is always neatly and consistently dressed. Meals are prepared tastefully and economically and are always punctually served.

Although no one enjoys a pleasant chat more than she does, she avoids anything like idle gossip, and no one can tempt her to waste the early morning hours in talking over her neighbors' affairs.

A good housekeeper also avoids debt. She insists upon paying for everything as she gets it and sees that she gets good value for her money.

A fussy woman may be a prim old maid, but she is probably an untidy wife, always very unpunctual, for she has "no time" to do anything, her faculty for fuss retarding her actions. She never spares herself, never idles a moment and thinks nothing can be done so well by any one as by herself. Hence she is quite unnecessarily overworked, overfatigued and frequently fractious.

The husband goes to his club; the children are so accustomed to continued scolding that they become either hypocrites or unusually unmanageable, and heedless of rebuke. To some extent they deserve pity, for they are teased about their food, clothes, health, exercise, games and lessons. Nothing is done without plenty of fuss and discussion and many harmless pleasures are lost.

For Metal Beds.

If metal beds are chosen with an eye to their keeping bright and then given just a little care, there is no necessity for their turning dull and tarnishing. Experts say that brass ought not to tarnish if it is properly treated in the first place and the brass trimmings to white beds are the first places usually that show wear. Be careful in getting your bed to see if the trimmings (or the bed itself, if it is all brass) are carefully finished. If you do not know the signs yourself, ask some one who does; it may cost a little more than you thought, but it will be less in the long run. Enamel can be done (redone, that is) at home with very little trouble. And enamel paints cost so little that there is no excuse for letting a white iron bed go shabby, even though frequent handlings may have scarred the enamel here and there. Once in every few weeks, too, an enameled bed should be gone over with a soapy rag; it is surprising how much dirt will come off and how fresh the enamel will look after its cleaning.

A Fancy Dress Hat.

Yellow and white are the colors of a smart hat for dress wear. The narrow brimmed, low crowned hat is fashioned from Porto Rico cone. These cone points are flattened into effective shape and give the hat a pretty air. The straw is of corn yellow.

Large white daisies, with charming yellow eyes, are placed in conventional stiffness about the crown. Two long ostrich feathers are on the left side of the hat, and drop across the back. These are white, shading to a deep rich yellow.

Advice for the Newly Married.

If it were possible for the young husband to take up life where some prosperous business man has laid it down there might be spared him the self-denial and long years of labor that otherwise lay the foundation for his future success, says Aunt Jane in Wallace's Farmer. Most young people must begin life with very little money or experience, and it is to them I wish to preach.

Perhaps the income may be sufficient to provide a nicely furnished home in a rented house, plenty of rich food and expensive clothing, but there is nothing left. "In the beginning." Those are wonderful words. A new life is opening before you; old things have passed away. You have cut asunder the chains that bound you to the old home. You have embarked together alone on life's sea. Look well how you steer the bark, lest you become wrecked on the shoals or reefs of expensive living and wastefulness.

Begin with economy as your watchword.

Begin by giving up all useless expenses. Begin by being contented with living sufficiently within your income that you may lay by something from your income each month. "In the beginning" it is so much easier to start right than it is to get right after the habits of living have been formed. "In the beginning" the foundation is laid for successful ending. Begin right, end well.

After a while sickness will be sure to come to one or both of you; added expenses constantly arise, and unless you begin to save from the start you will find it difficult to save at all.

Don't deny yourselves every comfort in life and become mere "money grubbers." Enjoy necessary comforts, but beware of unnecessary luxuries. Learn to be contented with what you can afford, and don't worry because some neighbor or friend has more expensive things than you. Look well to the little expenses.

A good many of the severe forms of chemisette are being worn again. These are made of lawn slightly stiffened, and in some cases the choker is encircled by a satin frock. Lace and lingerie gimples and chemisettes have been worn so long that these new ones are a welcome change.

The tulle bows look well on women whose necks are long enough and who are also tall enough to carry them, and they provide sufficient protection to the neck from drafts, while loosened and pushed back on the shoulders they remove even the little bit of warmth they possess from the throat.

If you make a belt out of ribbon, which, of course, is on the straight, it is very much more satisfactory to use two lengths of narrow ribbon instead of one length of wide. Do not sew the two lengths of ribbon together, but adjust them to the bones at the front, back and sides. The two pieces of ribbon will allow more "give" than one piece would, so that the belt will fit better into the line of the waist.

Health and Beauty.

Daily bathing promotes health, vigor and beauty.

Dryness of skin and general eruptions call for more fruit to be eaten.

Bathing behind the ears with right hot water often relieves a headache.

If possible, pass at least two hours of each day in the sunshine and open air.

Almond meal may be used instead of soap if the latter is irritating to the skin.

Arnica diluted with warm water acts like magic in soothing tired, swollen feet.

Practice deep breathing constantly. After a short time it will become a habit.

If your nose is shiny use almond meal instead of soap and powder lightly with starch.

Soak the finger nails in warm sweet oil to get them fine and smooth and healthy.

Iodine will help neuralgic pain if the spot where the pain is severest be painted with it.

Moistened tea leaves applied to a burn will relieve the inflammation and prevent a scar.

If it is found necessary to wash the face shortly before going for a drive omit the use of soap.

Never use soap and water on the face just before going out in the air or directly after coming in.

When a cut will not stop bleeding apply ground rice or flour. Either one is said to be very efficacious.

If the habit of leaning on the elbows has been formed it should be broken immediately, as it is this habit that causes callous spots.

Oatmeal in the bath water will impart a velvety softness to the skin. To avoid stopping the waste pipes tie the oatmeal in a good-sized cheesecloth bag.

For hypersensitive spots on the teeth, due to an acid condition of the mouth, apply sodium bicarbonate with an orange-wood stick every morning and evening.

Every night bathe your face carefully with pure soap and warm water, afterward using a good skin food or cream. You will soon have your complexion clear and fine.

For headache squeeze the juice of a small lemon into a glass full nearly up with water; add a good pinch of soda and drink while foaming. Is especially good if one is dyspeptic or bilious.

Light Silk Blouse.

A beautiful silk blouse has a lace yoke bordered with chiffon roses or lace motifs heading tiny ruffles of silk. Across the plaited body are similar ruffles headed with roses.

Prickly Heat Remedy.

If the baby is troubled with prickly heat, perhaps it is dressed too warmly. Loosen the clothing and make it a little lighter. Dissolve a small teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda in his bath. You might also bathe the affected parts with diluted witch hazel, using a soft linen cloth.

LATE SUMMER FROCKS.

Embroidered messaline, with paralleled skirt and vest and flat collar of lace. Girdle of satin or taffeta a little darker in tone than the frock. Checked voile in brown and white, with bands of the material piped with brown taffeta. Waistcoat and belt of white cloth, with brown buttons.

Snowflake Pudding.

If this pudding is as dainty as its name it ought to be delicious. To make it, soak a package of gelatine in one cup of cold water until thoroughly dissolved, then turn into it two and a half cups of boiling water, the juice of two small lemons, one and one-half cups of sugar and the well-beaten whites of three eggs. Whip until very stiff. Make a custard by scalding one and a half pints of milk, adding to it one cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour and the yolks of three eggs. When cold, flavor with vanilla.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube re-opened to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; it is not a case of ten days or ten weeks, but a case of ten years or ten decades. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for regulars, free.

Many a father who has won his way from poverty to riches by hard and grinding toil makes the mistake of deciding that his boy shall not know the drudgery of daily routine, and brings the lad up in idleness, with all the pocket-money he can spend. Attention has lately been called to such a one, now awaiting trial for murder, whose father gave him a thousand dollars a month while he was still under 21 and a pupil in a boarding-school. It is not surprising that he fell on the pathway paved for him with slippery gold pieces.

Harlequin Jelly.

Dissolve a half package of gelatine in a pint and a half of cold water. Have ready the juice of two lemons, two oranges and a can of pineapple and add to it a cup and a half of sugar. Pour over the mixture a pint of boiling water and add the whole to the gelatine; stir thoroughly, strain, and set away to cool. Cut into dice pineapple, oranges, candied cherries and bananas until there is a cup and a half, and when the gelatine begins to harden drop in the fruit lightly. Pour into a mold and chill.

DEMANDS RECOGNITION

The following extract from a letter by Ex-Senator Thomas Kearns of Utah, published in a recent issue of the Salt Lake Tribune, is well worth reading in connection with the renewed effort now being made by the American Mining Congress to bring about the creation of a department of mining at the coming session of Congress. Senator Kearns points out a fact which is not fully recognized, viz., that the commercial prosperity of the country is entirely dependent upon its mineral production and that without a continued increase of that production, the business of the country must be brought to a standstill.

The letter is in part as follows: "I wonder if those who attempt to look into the future and who make mental pictures contrasting the greatness of this country ten or twenty years to come with its greatness now have a proper conception of the important work the mountain states shall exert in the country's development?"

"I wonder if our statesmen, our publicists, and those who make and administer the law, realize the vast influence which mineral mining in the United States has on the country's commerce. I wonder if Congress and the President have shown that deep concern for this great industry its commercial importance and influence deserves. I wonder if the people understand how much it contributes to their material welfare?"

"If one reflects on these three things, the answer must be in the negative. And the answer itself should stimulate action not only in the West, where greater attention to the latent forces about us should produce swifter results than elsewhere. but in the entire business world."

"It is not sufficient to say that the mining industry of the United States is the greatest, is the most important, has the largest capital invested or is the most progressive, for while these things are true, it may also be said the industry is embryonic. The country's vast mineral resources are yet untouched. Mountains that yield no profits or small profits to-day, under the touch of modern appliances and equipment to-morrow will pour forth great streams of wealth. This development is national development. The product of this field of industry is the strongest pillar in the country's commercial structure."

Not the most thoughtful nor the most enthusiastic man—he who lives among the mines and witnesses the tremendous work already being accomplished in the west—can understand the importance of all this upon the country at large. He sees cities built with this wealth. He realizes that hundreds of thousands are daily employed in the expanding of the industry. He knows what local influence is exerted, but its effect on the commerce of the country generally he does not conceive because it is inconceivable.

There was undisputed cause for recognition by the government of agricultural and industrial forces in the establishing of national bureaus and in the appointment of cabinet officials to represent them. Is there less reason for giving federal encouragement to mines and mineral development?"

The contract for carrying the mails from this place to the West Coast of Prince of Wales Island provides specifically that the mail shall be carried in a steamer, and that during the winter months it must leave Wrangell upon the first and fifteenth of each month. Just now the provision is complied with so far as the kind of vessel is concerned, but, after the contract was secured by Mr. Strong it was a very short time until a gasoline launch was put on the run "because," according to Mr. Strong, "the amount received for carrying the mail would not justify its being done by a steam vessel." It is presumed that before a person bids for a contract, he has figured up the expense so as to see himself clear when the provisions of such contract are carried out to the last letter, and had it not been for the greedy spirit for which Ketchikan is noted, the mail route in question would have been in the hands of men who, having no desire to cut prices just to get the job, would have carried out every provision, just as they did before the Ketchikan "butter-in" got the contract. Experience is a good teacher, and Mr. Strong, or any other person or persons to whom he has or may let the contract, should be compelled by Uncle Sam to live up to every letter of that contract, even though they lose money by so doing. One treatment of that nature would stop price-cutting on mail routes and assure the people along the route a good service. So far as complying with the contract in regard to punctuality, that has never been done since the new contract was let. The mail boat makes the run during her leisure from other business, no attention being paid to dates. There should be a remedy for these conditions, and we think it should be applied without delay.

We are sincerely pleased to note that the local chamber of commerce, which has been dormant so long, is to be revived, and to also announce that the regular meetings will be resumed on the third Thursday night of the president. This decision was made after discussion at the special meeting last Thursday. The chamber of commerce has been instrumental in bringing to a successful end several matters of vital importance to the town, not the least of which was the laying of the cable to Wrangell from Cape Fanshaw instead of by way of Dixon's entrance to Ketchikan, as once proposed, and which would have left Wrangell "out in the cold" for communication with the world. The organization now has the chance of helping in and boosting another proposition which is of almost equal moment with the cable, viz: the dredging of the Dry Straits to a depth sufficient to permit the passage of all steamers coming to southeastern Alaska. This matter was once brought almost to a successful termination, and we know that if our people will just keep a stiff upper lip and hang on in their demand for the improvement, it will come. Rome was not built in a day. Neither will Dry Straits be dredged this year. But the rapidly increasing business demands a safer and more feasible channel than the one now used, and the sooner we work, the sooner will we get what we want.

More than 11,000,000 pieces of mail went astray in these United States last year because they were not directed well enough for the experts to decipher the names and addresses. The cable is here. Now let's go in for the improvement of the Dry Straits. We will accomplish our purpose only by concerted and persistent effort.

Our forefathers took a deal of pleasure from the old-fashioned spellin' school, and besides the pleasure, the youngsters derived much good from the practice of that part of the education which is given very little attention in these days of grasping after the root of all evil. Long winter evenings are upon us, with no pleasurable way of passing them, except by an occasional dance. Let's revive the old custom of having a weekly meeting for spellin' school, cipherin' matches and debatin' society in this community. It will help to make the winter pass pleasantly and profitably.

In the name of all that's fair, how long will the big Pacific Coast Steamship Company openly violate the provisions of its contract to carry the government mail to this part of Alaska. If we are not mistaken, the agreement is to carry the mail from Seattle to Alaska every seven days, but with the old Cottage City as the only steamer on the run and the Humboldt refused the mail, some kind reader will confer a great favor by explaining to us how on earth—or water, either—can the company fill their contract.

"You can't tell a man from Chicago—anything." That answer won the $10 prize for the following question: "How can you tell a Chicagoan?" The second prize was given to a lady from Goshen, Ind., who said "Whisper 'canned meat' and look at his wife's feet."

An exchange remarks that a St. Louis woman who was sued for the payment of a costly pair of corsets, will endeavor to prove in court that they did not fit her snugly. St. Louis is in Missouri, you know.

AMERICA'S GREATEST WEEKLY

THE TOLEDO BLADE

TOLEDO, OHIO

In many respects the TOLEDO BLADE is the most remarkable weekly newspaper published in the United States. It is the only newspaper especially edited for national circulation. It has the largest circulation for more years than any newspaper printed in America. Furthermore, it is the cheapest newspaper in the world, as will be explained to any person who will write us for terms. The news of the world so arranged that busy people can more easily comprehend than by reading cumbersome columns of dailies. All current topics made plain in each issue by special editorial matter written from inception down to date. The only paper published especially for people who do or do not read daily newspapers, and yet thrust for plain facts. That this kind of newspaper is popular, is proven by the fact that the Weekly Blade now has over 185,000 yearly subscribers, and is circulated in all parts of the U. S. In addition to the news, the Blade publishes short and serial stories, and many departments of matter suited to every member of the family. One dollar a year. Write for free specimen copy.
